UNIQUE PLACE OF AMUSEMENT DE-SCRIBED BY A TRAVELER.

The Puppets That Enact the Play Are Loose-Jointed Wooden Figures-Located in "Little Italy."

"Out in San Francisco there is a unique theater such as can be found nowhere else in the United States," said a New York | play, so absorbed had I become in the emotraveling man in the Denison House lobby the other evening. "I know of nothing like | The audience listened with rapt attention, it in any other American city, even New | and when the heroine of the tragedy fell York, and yet it is a fact that very few | upon her knees to utter a pathetic prayer visitors in 'Frisco ever hear anything in a voice broken with suffering there was about the queer little playhouse and it is doubtful if half the inhabitants of the town are aware of its existence. I have journeyed to the coast on business trips several | de Bergerac, giving voice to the joys, the times, but never until a month ago was I fortunate enough to find my way to the | characters-and receiving little credit him-Teatro Marionette-for that is its name. It is situated in that interesting part of San Francisco known as 'Little Italy.' en figures, and the play is always one of in- | the attention of the sightseer." tense tragic interest-never comedy. The theater is in an old store building, and there is nothing to indicate that it is a playhouse except the big crude painting hanging over its door-a highly-colored picture of two armored knights mounted on fiery horses, and locked in deadly com-

"The interior of the theater is something long to be remembered and the smell is somehting that you can't forget, no matter how you may try. The ceiling is only twelve feet above the floor, and yet there is a gallery running around three of the walls in the rear! If you are the possessor of a down-stairs seat you have to almost crawl under the gallery to get to your chair. The gallery is patronized nearly portion, for which you must pay an addi- ler is not a man for this world. tional 5 cents, the general admission being a dime. The reserved seats are black | messenger boy who rings the front doorwooden chairs with big white numbers

PECULIAR LITTLE STAGE. the door outside. The orchestra, consisting lions of a sad-eyed little pianist and a sadder receives. He has a big bunch of soiled and but I noticed that he seldom paid any at- there is also slight medical treatment. tention to the notes. I couldn't make out whether the printed music was all a bluff, or whether he was so familiar with it that tention. He plays continuously throughout the entire performance, and you'll realize lions. what an artist he is when I tell you that the night I took in the show he managed to get away with half a bag of peanuts without breaking the continuity of his musical programme. Whenever the opportunity offered he would play for a moment with one hand, while he managed in some way to shell and put the peanuts into his mouth with the other. Just try to accomplish this feat yourself if you consider it an easy one. That fellow won my everlasting admiration on the spot.

"The peanut vender, by the way, is an important factor in the theater. I believe he owns a half interest in the enterprise. He mixes among the men downstairs with an enormous basket of peanuts on his arm, shouting 'Peanuts!' at the top of his voice. It isn't necessary for him to go up into the the floor above he simply hands the bag of peanuts up over the gallery rail without budging from his position in the middle of the main floor. The theater is only twenty feet wide, and the peanut man stands in the center aisle furing the greater part of the evening waiting for his patrons to come to him. Its only when business is unusually dull that he bestirs himself in search of customers. "When the audience is assembled for the entertainment it is as interesting a spectacle as one can see anywhere in this country. Everybody knows everybody else; women lean over the gallery rail to shake hands with some friends below; the young Italian youths cast languishing glances from underneath their heavy eyelashes at the dark-skinned young girls that have accompanied their parents to the play; there are greetings such as 'Hi, Giovanni!' 'Hi, Luigi!' and a babble of Latin words spoken with lightning-like rapidity. And the odor-gracious! but its stifling. Such a remarkable mixture of tobacco, garlic and that indescribable smell of crowded humanity! If the American visitor can but accustom himself to that discouraging smell he will surely enjoy the evening's entertainment, to say nothing of the amusement he will get out of the audience

BEGINS WITH A SONG. "The show always begins with a song, sung by a heavy-set cavalier dressed in a faded suit of green and brown velvet. The singer possesses a tremendous baritone voice, and sings in perfect tune, but the song is seemingly en endless one. Everybody appears to enjoy it hugely, however, and when at last it comes to an end with a sensational finale, during which the singer almost bursts a blood vessel, the audience shouts out its enthusiastic approval in a manner that would put an Anglo-Saxon assembly to shame. Then the performance proper begins, and what an earnest business it is. The puppets that enact the play are loose-jointed wooden figures about three feet high, with wonderfully painted faces and costumes that resemble Joseph's famous coat. Their movements, of course, are controlled by their godfather up in the flies, who scorns invisible wires and uses instead very conspicuous rods that are attached to the arms and legs of the 'actors.' And not only can you plainly see the rods upon which the figures move, but occasionally, when the most exciting scenes are taking place, the dirty hands of the manipulator above come into view. The imaginative Latin audience doesn't mind these things in the least, but accepts the play in all seriousness and with genuine artistic temperament. The man who works the figures really gives the whole show. And it is heavy tragedy from beginning to end. Although I couldn't understand a word of Italian I could easily fol-

THE TEATRO MARIONETTE low the action of the play and catch the

me-the wooden hands raised to high car. heaven, while the tearful voice of the somebody's blood, or the passionate lovevoice at times, or again there was dramatic | masses. intensity that made me hold my breath in spite of myself. And for awhile I actually overlooked the funny side of the marionette tions depicted by the Italian showman,

"The puppet worker is a sort of Cyrano sorrows, the pleasures and pains of all his manipulator as a true artist, at the same where the language, the customs and the time they are so imaginative that they people are all Italian. The community has look upon the marionettes as the real its own social sets, its own newspaper and actors. That little miniature playhouse in its own amusements, of which this funny | San Francisco is surely the strangest thelittle theater is one. Every night a three- ater in the United States, and the queerest act play is presented there by little wood- thing about it is that it has so far escaped

MILLIONS FOR DR. BUEHLER HUNG BY A THREAD OF ELOQUENCE.

However, He Caused the Tempter to "Hike" Quickly Out of His Presence-A Story's Sad Ending.

Dr. Eugene Buehler, city sanitarian, altogether by women and children, who threw millions away yesterday. He actualseem to consider it the choice part of ly spurned the offer of a nervous man the house, its only disheartening feature | who called on him and showed him the being the necessity of leaning forward to golden path to opulence and luxury. He keep their heads from bumping against | ignored his earnest arguments. He snickthe ceiling. There are two sections to ered at his business ideas and sneered at the downstairs part of the house, the his prospectus. Then the man went away, front half comprising the reserved seat | with the sincere conviction that Dr. Bueh-

The man came after the manner of bell of the wrong house at midnight. He painted on them, and the occupant of one of | was full of confidence. His ruddy face them may place his feet on a little dirty strip and ponderous paunch considered in conof carpet if he doesn't prefer to cock them | nection with eyes somewhat bleared and a up on the rounds of the chair in front of peculiar odor of hops might indicate to less analytical persons that a man who has to guess at smallpox-much as one has to "The stage, which extends the full width guess "the little ball" in a well-known of the theater, is about four feet high, and, game-that he was full of other things. like the rest of the interior, is decorated But he wasn't. It was only confidence. with pink, green and gold paint, and sports | The man sat down, removed his hat, wiped a curtain similar to the one hanging over his forehead and then tendered his mil-

Now, Dr. Buehler has directed his physioplane, is sandwiched in between the stage logical studies to the purpose of underand the first row of reserved seats. The standing how to defeat the aggregation of musician is a hard worker, and he certainly adipose tissue in the human system. He earns every penny of the meager pay he has devised a thoroughly rational and gradual plan for reducing adipose tissue. torn music on the instrument before him, It is largely diatetic and abstemious, but Among some of his coterie of friends he has confided his system, and their experience has been that it accomplishes reduche found it unnecessary to give it any at- tion with certainty and moderation. Knowing this, the man came to tender his mil-

EXPANDED HIS THEORY. Col. Mulberry Sellers would scarcely have expanded his scheme as Maj. George Drew did to Dr. Buehler. Said the major, with brotherly emphasis:

"You're a young man, ain't you? Of course; any one can see that. You haven't got J. Pierpont backed off the boards either, have you? Of course, I only assume that. But here you've delivered the goods, as it were; have made good and proper on a proposition that has baffled medical skill for a thousand years. I know it. I have read all the derned books and things and heard lectures by all kinds of physigists and taken courses in everything from osteopathy to voodooism and I know. See? Here's your chance. Don't take much cash to line this cloud with silver either. Just a few hundred planted in the right hands for testimonials and things and the ball is started. Roll on, little ball, I say! It grows. We hand out the goods where it will bread the water most and then we get out our.

nets for the golden return. "Suppose we start out with some up-todate testimonials. Take D. B. Shideler for instance We'll dope him with this stuffand that's your end of the partnership-and when he is down to the limit we'll put in two photographs of him-before and after. See? We'll have an indictment signed by him saying: 'For thirty years I weighed 347 pounds and could find no relief. I have been using your medicine for thiry days and now people call me Bob Bryson and want jobs on the police force. I owe you all. Dr. Buehler.

"Or take 'Squire Nickerson. Feed him them pills and we'll hang a Grand Army badge on him so that in the before-taking

"At first it all seemed very ridiculous to like the electric headlight on a Greenwood

"How would a testimonial like this from manipulator registered an oath to have Frank B. Burke sound, spread out over ten inches across three columns, with a special making of the double-jointed puppets, the | border: 'Dear Dr. Buehler-I have found man in the loft carrying on the dual con- out my mistake. When I ran for Governor versation in two distinctly different voices. I weighed 216 pounds. I have taken your But soon I began to appreciate the fact system and have lost so much flesh that I that the fellow with the dirty hands, who feel like running for President. You have was giving the entire play, was really an | them all skinned to a frazzle and I am artist. There was genuine pathos in his with you. Glorious! A winner with the

IN M'GOWAN'S OFFICE. "Suppose I'd butt my way into Hugh Mc-Gowan's office and square away with him on some of that stuff, and after we've brought him down to a nine by three door we'll have him so jollied that he'll authorize his fourteenth assistant to sign this testimonial: 'Dear Dr. Buehler-I wish to commend your treatment. Since I took your treatment I have lost forty-seven pounds and three ounces. This is the only thing I ever lost in my life.'

"But," said Dr. Buehler, "I don't know McGowan, and-" "A trifle, Doc. You leave that to me. I'll be the man behind the bottle, as it were. I'll trip 'em up and bind 'em, whoever they are. Take Jimmy Moriarity, for instance, Rheumatism, Democracy nor nothing else can reduce his weight. We'll hand him bunch of your system and direct attention to the Council meetings. We'll stand him on the bill boards with this slogan: "Arrah na Pogue! If old Malachi was alive he'd give his collar of gold for some of your smooth oil. It's better than goose grease and has reduced my weight so much that I feel like I'm violating Jim Billingsley's inal racial advertising. "Suppose I nail John Holtzman as a representative German and tie him up with a window hanger in red and yellow, saying: your destroyer of man's unhappiness I can now pass through a door without laying down and rolling through. Hoch der Dr. Buehler!' Fine! Dramatic! Ain't it!

come heraus!' That's what I call my orig-handle more than a dollar stack of whites in my hand, but to-day, thanks to your wonderful cure, I can't handle thirty cents without wanting to cut you in on it!' That's a trade method of expressing gratification.

"So, you see, there's no limit. That hot air will blow from face to face and from town to town and from State to State and from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the great lakes to the gulf; yea, from pole to pole and from Beersheeba unto Dan, and Buehler's adi-pose-not will have turned Grover Cleveland into a $15 suit and the Sultan of Sulu will have to take up the slack in the royal belt. They'll all have to come and see Dr. Buehler, with the goods, too. And, when we've got more than the banks can cash, we'll get out our cleavers and chop it in two and out of pure philanthropy turn this blessed boon over to prosperity gratis, with free use of your world famous name blown in glass bot-

He paused. In his face shone the bright light of triumph. Business judgment had overcome professional modesty. Had it? "You gibbering idiot!" said the doctor, bursting out into invective as a last resort, "you pachydermatous ass, you eocine nonentity, if you don't tear out I'll spray you with muriatic acid!"

But Maj. George Drew and his millions had fled.

Where Were the Doctors?

The confession of Jane Toppan that in her philanthropic capacity of nurse she disposed of no less than thirty-one patients speaks gloriously for the watchfulness and capacity of the physicians with whom she was associated.

The Exorcism of Unhappiness.

She, who one time was my guest, Shall be guest no more; Dark the room that knew her best, Closed and barred the door Every casement locked to her

Who was Sorrow's messenger. Now forbidden in the place That she knew of old, Nevermore her gloomy face With her cracked voice, pitched to wheeze

Tales of drear despondencies. Oh! she made this hearth of mine Like a funeral; 'Neath her eyes the fire's bright shine Seemed to fade and fall When the sun was gold her gloom

Made a shadow in the room. Over-long she sat with me, Ere time made me wise, Hearing in her dompany Thrice-told tales and lies

Of old Miseries that grew, Even as she told them, new. Be it lack of courtesy, Be it fault or sin, Nevermore to mine and me

Shall she enter in; Nevermore my hands shall press Thine, oh, crone Unhappiness! Light the lamps and set the feast, Bid the music start, Oh! ye joys or small or least, Crowded from my heart,

Now I bid the dance begin-

Pray ye laugh and enter in. Enter in, while Time endures, Merry joys of earth, Heart and house and home are yours. Yours are roof and hearth.

Greet me, pledge me cup to lip In your wondrous fellowship. I am free who once was slave, Pray ye, friends, carouse That this creature of the grave

Is forbid my house. Laughter, lift your lips to me-Kiss me, blue-eyed Comedy!

-Theodosia Garrison, in the Era Magazine.

COMMON SENSE APPLIED. Softleigh (tenderly)-Darling, I have made up my mind to ask you to become my wife. I know I am unworthy of you, but-Alice-Say no more, Harold. I am yours. You may be unworthy Softleigh-But what, dearest? Alice-Haif a loaf is better than no bread,

THE CITY BAND, STILL IN EXIST-ENCE, WAS ORGANIZED IN 1854.

Ole Bull, the Swedish Violinist, Was First Great Virtuoso to Come-Hans Von Buclow's Visit in 1876.

The musician who has lived in this city the longest is Adolph Schellschmidt, of 432 East Ohio street. Several well-known musicians have made their homes in this city for many years, but Mr. Schellschmidt eads them. He came to this town in 1854. Prof. H. D. Beissenherz came here twenty years later, while Professor R. A. Miller was only a year behind Mr. Schellschmidt. The career of the city band has been a long and prosperous one. It was organized in 1854 and is still in existence. Professor Miller is now the leader of it. The band had fifteen members when it was formed and was under the leadership of Henry Hahn, who was its promoter. During the civil war the band played for a hundred different regiments at home. When the oldiers returned on a furlough the band met them at the station and escorted them to the barracks, situated on West street, between Maryland and Washington streets. They were given a good meal and then the band escorted them to the Statehouse, where they were addressed by Governor Morton and General Mansfield. The solweights and measures ordinance. Erin diers were allowed to go to their homes then. Mr. Schellschmidt says that when the first allotment of soldiers was released on a furlough Colonel Blake was so proud of them that they were marched through 'Ach du Albert-I mean lieber. Since using all the principal streets. Mr. Schellschmidt says he will never forget it, because it was during the winter and was extremely cold. Mr. Schellschmidt has an excellent memory and is able to recall the names of near-"Then we want to kid the fraternity a lit- ly all of the famous musicians who aptle. We'll pipe Gus Rahke for a confiden- peared here when the city was in its infancy. All of the recitals were given in the Masonic Hall, until the Morrison Hall was built on South Meridian street. The Morrison Hall was built in 1860, and was situated at the northeast corner of Maryland and Meridian streets. The Masonic Hall always has been at the corner of Capitol avenue and Washington street, but it has been remodeled. OLE BULL THE FIRST. The first virtuese to play in this town, that Mr. Schellschmidt can remember, was Ole Bull. He was a famous violin player, and appeared here in 1856. The admission tee was $1, and the house was crowded. In 1857 Sigmund Thalberg, the greatest planist of his time, played here. With him were Charlotta Patti and her sister, Amalia Strakosch, the wife of Maurice Strakosch, a famous musician. In 1859 Henry Vieuxtemps and Henry Cooper, both noted violinists, came with a concert troupe. In 1860 Cooper returned with an opera company. The people read in the Saturday morning papers that an opera was to be sung that night and that Henry Cooper was to direct it. On account of the rain that poured down that night and the short notice that had been given, it was thought that the atendance would be very small, but, in spite of these difficulties, the house was packed. The orchestra, which was composed of musicians of this city, was not familiar with the music and was able to play but very little of it. Cooper and his violin made up the orchestra proper. Before the company left it gave two perhemian Girl." Anna Miller was the prima donna and a man named Rudolph was the tenor. The admission was 25, 50 and 75 cents, and the hall was filled at every per-

In 1858 the Metropolitan Opera House was opened and Mr. Schellschmidt and the rest of the most prominent musicians entered the orchestra. On account of this Mr. Schellschmidt missed a good many concerts given at the halls. In 1860 Morrison Hall was built and all of the musical shows were given there instead of in Masonic Hall.

During the month of March, 1861, the Holman troupe of children sang a number | marked: of grand operas here. They came from Canada. Those persons that are able to remember the noted singers of years ago will be sure to recall the wonderful work of Parepa, the famous soprano. She was married to Carl Rosa, a well-known violin player. They formed a troupe and sang the great operas both in this country and "the Carl Rosa Opera Company." Jehm Prume, the nephew of Jehm Prume that wrote "Melancole," played here in 1859. The boy played this difficult composition in such a masterful way that it made him

Hans von Buelow, a pianist who played 1876 to give two recitals. He arrived in the city a few days before the recitals so that he could practice and get himself intoshape. He practiced so much that persons living in the same wing of the hotel complained to the manager. As soon as Von Buelow heard of it he rented the whole wing of the hotel.

After Von Buelow had given one of his recitals a music teacher called on him. Von Buelow asked the teacher if he were present at the recital. The teacher said no. He had to direct his choral society that evening. Von Buelow told the professor that the members of his society could learn more by attending one of his recitals than he (the professor) could teach them in a year.

Von Buelow was the director of the operas in Richard Wagner's theater in Beyreuth. Von Buelow gave his wife Cosima to Wagner, who had fallen in love with her. She is a daughter of Franz Liszt and lives in Beyreuth now.

After the Chicago fire, in 1871, the Philharmonic Society was organized in this city. A benefit was given for the sufferers from the fire, in which $300 was realized. Bernhard Vogt was the director and R. A. Miller was the president.

WHITE HOUSE REMODELING.

The Building Is Closed to Visitors Until Next December.

Washington Post. "What! Can't we get into the White House?" an elderly woman exclaimed yesterday, when she was confronted by the sign "Closed," which hangs at the main entrance to the executive mansion. "Well, we must get in," she protested, when told that the house will not open again to the public until December. "This woman came from the other side of the world to take a look at Washington, and can't go away without seeing the White

The old lady was so earnest that the doorkeeper allowed her and her friend from a remote corner of the earth to step into the main entrance of the building They did not act like foreign-traveled so the doorkeeper inquired what part of the world they came from. "Oh, I'm from Alexandria," the spokeswoman replied, but my friend, she's from away over in St. Marys county, Maryland.' Another appeal for admission came from Iowa. The speaker was an elderly woman, who was very stout and held tightly to the arm of a withered-up old man. "Pa and me came all the way from Ottumwa, Ia., to see the White House, and we must go in," she explained. The elderly couple was permitted to enter the picture it will look like a pin-head and in the after-taking picture it will show up MUSIC IN THE EARLY DAYS The Wm. H. Block Co. The Wm. H. Block Co. The Wm. H. Block Co.

GREAT BARGAINS IN

SATIN STRIPED MADRAS-A very fine cloth, in three patterns, highly mercerized stripes, makes beautiful ladies' waists and dresses and men's shirts, washes splendidly, 32 inches wide, 40c quality, preinventory sale price... 19 CORDED BATISTE - Make handsome waists or dresses, 32 inches wide, 14

25c quality..... OPEN-WORK SWISS-With stripe combination, 27 inches wide, for waists and dresses, regular 20c quality, preinventory sale price..... CORDED BATISTE-For a swell waist or dress, extra width, 32 inches, 18c quality, per yard......11 CORDED MUSLIN-33 inches wide, for a dainty waist or dress, 20c quality, per yard.....

FANCY LAWN-With combination of dimity and a wide stripe, very beautiful sheer fabric for waists or dresses 121/2 25c quality, per yard..... BATISTE-With wide stripe, 27 inches wide, very effective cloth, 18c quality, per yard..... SHRUNK DUCK-For full suits or sepa-

PLAIN PIQUE-30c quality, preinventory sale price..... DIMITIES-In checks and stripes, 10c quality, per yard..... INDIA LINON-30 inches wide, 12c INDIA LINON-32 inches wide, sheer rate skirts, 25c quality, and fine, 25c quality, per yard..... FRENCH ORGANDY-72 inches wide, extra fine, for evening and street 42 dresses, 70c quality, per yard..... PERSIAN LAWN-32 inches wide, Q 16c quality, per yard..... PALE SWISS MULL-The genuine imported, makes handsome street dresses, as well as for evening wear, 32 inches wide-30c quality, per yard...... 20c quality, per yard......12

TUCKED LAWN AND LACE

ALL-OVERS 12 STYLES of fine tucked Lawn, in clusters of five tucks each and five rows fine wide, correct styles for whole waists, yokes, sleeves and corset covers, reg-

18-INCH EMBROIDERY FLOUNCINGS

A NEW LOT PRETTY PATTERNS, some with beading scallops, suitable for corset covers, shirtwaist fronts and skirt flounces, special values 48c, 25 a yard

OUR COLORED WASH GOODS

SUPREMACY Is acknowledged on every hand. The immense variety of weaves, colorings and designs Is nowhere equaled. Prices, we're sure, will please you. Specials for Monday:

CORDED AND STRIPED LAWNS, thou- | IMPORTED SWISSES, handsome foulard sands of yards of dainty printings, 5 all colors, 10c quality..... BATISTES, fine and sheer, all new choice printings, in every color, 15c qual- 71/2 BATISTE, the best quality, a grand collection of beautiful styles and colorings, 19c quality

DIMITIES, the best American make, some with satin stripes, all new styles, the 15c quality DOTTED SWISSES, your choice of over 100 pieces, all styles and col- 121/2 orings, 19c quality FRENCH ORGANDIES, 33 inches wide, complete line of evening shades, 15 the 25c quality FANCY LINEN BATISTES, some with lace stripes, others are dainty corded effects, in the popular linen shades, 19 the 25c quality IRISH LINEN BATISTES, those made at Belfast, Ireland; are pure linen, 31 inches wide, very fine and sheer, in the new linen shades, the 39c qualdesigns, neatly embroidered, a large variety of colorings, the 75c quality....39 FANCY SILK MOUSSELINES, embroidered in dots, some with lace stripes, elegant foulard printings, in all the 48 new tints, the 60e quality..... MERCERIZED FOULARDS, very silky and fine, an elegant line of nobby 15 styles, all colors, the 25c quality.....

SILK AND LINEN BATISTES, 44 inches wide, made of pure sllk and linen; are ors, the 60c quality48

RIBBON TISSUES, a very fine and sheer cloth, with satin ribbon stripe, white grounds, with stylish printings, in 29 colors, the 50c quality..... MERCERIZED LACE STRIPE TISSUES new and dainty, lace stripe effects, 25 in all colors, the 50c quality..... SILK ZEPHYRS, sheer and fine, in all the popular tints, the regular 25c 15 SKIRTING DUCKS, extra firm and heavy, plain colors as well as polka dots, ring line of colors BLOUSE AND LINEN DUCKS, for skirtings and sultings, in the light and dark linen shades, a large variety at 121/2 dots and stripes, in a complete

REAR BARGAIN TABLE 25c Ribbons, per Yard, 16c

ALL-SILK WASH TAFFETA, 334 inches wide, plain and moired, white, pink, blue, maize, red and helio, regular 25c quality.

ALL-SILK SATIN TAFFETA, 334 inches wide, in all the new summer colors, also white and black, regular 25c quality. FANCY STRIPPED RIBBONS, 31/2 to 4 inches wide, a dozen combinations in all the new tints, 25c and 29c qualities.

12½ c and 15c Ribbons, per Yard, 10c

All-silk, 31/8 inches wide, plain Taffeta and Louisine, with small dots and figures, light blue, pink, white, red, maize and turquoise, regular 121/2c and 15c qualities, per yard......10

The Wm. H. Block Co. The Wm. H. Block Co.

WE ARE HEADQUARTERS FOR Vacation Goods

Our stock is the most complete in the State. Guarantee our prices the lowest-

SUIT CASES

Steel frame, brass lock and bolts, leather handle and corners, worth $1.15 Cow hide leather, steel frame, strong handle, brass lock and bolts; a bargain

Suit Cases up to $25.00. TELESCOPES

Made of good canvas, strong straps, leather tips. 14-in. 16-in. 18-in. 20-in. 22-in. 24-in. 26-in.

$2.50 to $30.00 TRAVELING BAGS

TRUNKS

material, 3-ply veneer tops, in bureau, dress, skirt, hat, steamer, ratan, gents'

We make our trunks, use only good

We have every kind, made in all shapes and sizes, 50c to $30.00 30c 40c 50c 60c 70c 80c 90c TRUNKS AND CASES MADE TO ORDER. TRUNK REPAIRING given special attention.

Members Merchants's Association. Telephone Main 1723, New 298. R. R. Fares Refunded.

never could have gone home without goin' table

Workmen were busy in the East Room all day yesterday tearing down the finery | if the choice of flowers is made with diswhich has delighted several generations, preparatory to the work of remodeling. the room and yesterday the great mirrors and the moldings were taken from the devote almost as little time to the process. valls and placed in storage. The chande- It has been proved that if you pull ten liers, with their 5,020 glass spangles, which | weeds a day and pursue this policy have prompted much talking on the part of guides, were taken down and the old rennials can be kept in excellent order. portraits of Washington, Lincoln, Dolly Nature does not run riot, in these latitudes Madison, and other celebrities were re- at least, unless you are so indiscreet as to for coyness never is appreciated fully until moved from the walls. Much of the furni- stop watching her.

GRANDMOTHER'S GARDEN.

rooms in the White House.

Beethoven sonatas mostly, came here in | How to Make the Best of a Small Plot of Ground.

> New York Mail and Express. "What I would like to know," said the man with the hoe, "is how a man with a suburban lot fifty by two hundred feet can make the best use of it. I am reasonable. | yet help to keep the garden calendar gay I simply want enough flowers and salads | throughout the season. of my own production to remind me of my birthright in the earth."

> The revival of interest in gardening finds many such complaints. For many years the trowel has been an unfamiliar implement in the hand of the amateur, for obvi- raised from seed sown at intervals beous reasons. While the prevailing fashion for beautifying suburban plots and the larger parks around country houses was to break up smooth clipped lawns with jewel-like beds in conventional designs, the professional gardener could have no rival. Clipping bedding plants and cutting out grass edges is a laborious task which does | shrubs must not overshadow low-growing not tempt one to do it for love, yet it requires a degree of skill which would make such an attempt a certain fallure.

Now, however, the gardens of our grand- | the season. mothers have returned to fashion, and indreds or thousands for bedding plants, the reception room. As they came out the old | light from the time the first crocus bloslady thanked the doorkeeper and re- somed in March till the last chrysanthe-"Well, we're satisfied now. I mum was gathered for the Thanksgiving A little time, a little ground and a little money will afford a love of a garden throughout the season, a large bed of pe-

garden is more satisfactory than paying an annual florist's bill for filling terra cotta | turn for your toil. vases or planting and maintaining geranium beds. A dozen clumps of lilies of the valley properly set out will make a large | suit of cookery for the love of the process bed two seasons hence, while in a year or two more you will be digging up roots and giving them to the neighbors.

The blue flag, loveliest of all flowers in form, as the history of floral ornament witnesses, returns the same generous interest on the original investment, while peonies, clove pinks, day lilies and hardy chrysanthemums add to the list of plants which almost take care of themselves,

There must be a few annuals, of course, asters give plenty of bloom and little trouble, except, of course, the sweet peas, thaw, involving rubber boots and general | nature do? If so the first murder seems not unpleasantness. All these annuals can be altogether without a plausible defense. tween the perennials, for the old-fashioned garden should be laid but in one large border bed against a wall or fence, whenever this is possible

Such a garden requires less labor than any other, while the arrangement of it gives the widest latitude to artistic feeling and common sense. Flowers which bloom at the same season must be kept apart, unless they harmonize in color; bushy delicate plants, and the entire bed must be "composed" as carefully as a picture, so that areas of harmonious bloom will be distributed in the green setting throughout If his space is very small the amateur gardener will do well to leave roses severestead of offering gay annuals by the hun- ly alone, unless to a scarlet rambler or some other free blooming climber is given space on a veranda trellis. Roses are hopeflorist is calling attention to the perennials | lessly undemocratic, and will not live hapwhich made early American gardens a de- I pily surrounded by other plants. If, how-

POKER JOKES. "He thought he had that jack pot cinched when he called me on three queens, but I had three aces." "Another case of the man who made a mistake in his calling."

thirty hardy roses a yard apart-the area is not large, as figuring will demonstratethe result will be a respectable rose garden not at all difficult to keep in order. The three or four hoeings needed in early summer are unskilled labor, and when June is over the rose garden will take care of itself. This is beterodox but practical. On no account should the amateur attempt violets unless he loves the leaves and knows beforehand how slender are his asked for violets on Christmas eve by a Fifth-avenue florist seems ridiculously cheap after you have tried to grow your own. The violet's title to her reputation you have built cold frames and bought ture has also been taken from the other | Buying perennials for the old-fashioned | plants by the dozens or even hundreds, and

Gardening for pleasure is hindered by this ambition to grow violets, just as the purrather than the results, is hampered by the unanimity of the inexperienced in choosing the Spanish omelette on which to begin. The satisfaction afforded by the most successful flower garden is a pale and poor thing compared to the sense of achievement which comes with the raising of a few passable vegetables. The seedsman does not deceive when he portrays strawberries three inches across and finds the page of his quarto catalogue too small for he life-sized portrait of a potato. He simply shows these products as they ap-Mignonette and pansies, sweet peas and pear in the eyes of the people who have raised them. Did the first horticulturist mentioned in sacred history take any such which have to be planted during a March | inordinate pride in the work he had helped

GREEK IS NOT ALL.

Oxford Professor Unduly Frightened by the Rhodes Bequest. Boston Transcript.

The scholarships provided for by the will of the late Cecil Rhodes are not criticised in this country alone. They are awakening alarm in the very citadel itself. Professor Case, who directs the department of moral philosophy at Oxford, is apprehensive that inder the proposed conditions the university will be tempted to permit students to enter who are not up to the standard in Greek and should such a thing occur he tells us in the National Review how dire the consequences would be. "Give up Greek," he says, "and civilization becomes a chaos; we have nothing to take its place. Without Greek in the highest education, men will not learn how to express themselves in natural concrete terms, will not study the beginning of any important subject or institution except Roman law, will not drink from the fountain of poetry and art, will not understand the origin and meaning of any great problems of philosophy, will lose their hold on Christian civilization, and worse than all will not know where to begin, or what solution to put in the place of what they have lost. Greek never was more necessary than now in the present upheaval of thought." We believe that one William Shakspeare knew little Latin and less Greek, yet he was fairly familiar with "concrete terms," But perhaps Professor Case inclines to the Baconian theory. We have no quarrel with those who love Greek. It is by no means a misplaced affection. But they should not be exclusive and intolerant. There are other art, philosophy and literature, but let them come through natural selection. Do not let us attempt the Initiation is these mysteries of those who have no taste oble mistresses among the liberal arts.

The field of knowledge has been expanding with such rapidity that we must pay some attention to others than the godlike Greeks.

There will continue to be high priests, as custodians of all that was fairest in Greek or genius for them. We are far away from the cloister influences when higher education rested on the narrow foundations of Greek and Latin, though this may be regarded as the Jovian era, for we are using his thunderbolts even in the most nen